Oshkosh Welcomes “Where in the World of Music Is Carmen Sandeigo™?”

The Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra and the Grand Opera House are delighted to introduce one of the hottest family concerts of the year to Oshkosh on May 10th, 2003.

Carmen Sandeigo has done it once again! The famed detective has stolen Carnegie Hall right before the Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra is about to make its Carnegie debut.

“This is an outstanding family performance that will entertain kids and adults with its interactivity and its musicality,” said Kay Qualley, Executive Director of the Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra. “Kids know Carmen Sandiego...and they’ll love this performance.”

With the help of audience members, Inspector Clue-not (Bobby Weinapple) and Conductor Gary Sheldon will seek to solve Carmen’s most recent theft.

The Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra will assist in the chase as they perform musical clues to help solve the mystery. This concert will introduce your family to the wonders of the symphony orchestra in this entertaining, educational fast-paced program. Don’t miss this wonderful interactive performance of “The Case of the Missing Concert Hall!”
